We’ll fight this catastrophe—council chiefs
By Colin Wright and John Shaugnessy

Sugar giant Tate and Lyle is to close its Liverpool refinery with the loss of 1,500 jobs.

Tate’s axe refinery 1,500 city jobs go

March will highlight plight of jobless

By Ian Craig

State Government departments to help create new industry and production of beet sugar

TO remove the European Community's restrictions on sugar production, Tate and Lyle will have to join with another company to make beet sugar.

TO arrange meetings with the council and Chief Executive Councillor Colman Grills in his letter to Merseyside MPs.

It could rise to 5,000 jobs

The company's share price on the announcement of its decision was £1.25, a rise of 50p.

Fame as hi...